

We at TARUS are humbled and grateful for this honor by the City of Sterling Heights.

Dating back 40 years ago, TARUS always felt like it had a partner in its growth and development with the City. Starting in the mid 1980s, the City of Sterling Heights offered tax abatements and incentives for TARUS to come to the city to grow and prosper.

Throughout the years, the City has been an outstanding partner. Not only in the excellent city services it provides, like safety, fire and streets – but the City of Sterling Heights has been a real partner in our story of growth and development.

We've had numerous interactions with the City's Economic Development Team over the years. They always come with curiosity, a growth mindset, and an eagerness to help us grow our business.

TARUS does business on 5 continents and sees firsthand how other centers of manufacturing around the world work. There are only 2 or 3 other places in the world that have manufacturing centers like Automation Alley, anchored by Sterling Heights.

However, none have the deep synergies that are demonstrated by the actions of communities like the City of Sterling Heights. The effort the City takes to make sure the entire ecosystem of advanced manufacturing stays knowledgeable, is working together and moving forward is nothing short of remarkable and commendable.

We thank the City of Sterling Heights for 40 great years of partnership and growth. There's no place TARUS would rather be.

Thank you.
